

FAQ

What type of Church are you?

We are simply a Church. BY CHOICE we are not a certain “denomination” for those who may inquire to know. This is not because we want to be called “non-denominational” nor are we against them. Actually our heart is that we would just be known as the Church to this city. We want all walls to come down that might inhibit a person from experiencing Church. We are Kingdom minded, and tired of things that separate the body of Christ. In fact we have had many different types of churches who have played a part in helping Genesis start. Not being known as a certain “denomination” can help some people and hinder others depending on how you were raised. Our desire and prayer is that you would come and see what Genesis is truly about, instead of trying to just find a “church” like you were raised in or experienced before.

What can I expect?

A place that is about more than ourselves. This world is bigger than us and we daily want to find our role in it. Of course we want to say it's a place where you are welcomed, accepted and encouraged. But more than that its a place to live TOGETHER with others. This Church is not about observing, but participating. It's about BECOMING the Church, not just attending one. We are tired of “Sunday boxes”. Each week we seek to do one important thing; open up God's Word and see what we need to take away, shift, or change in our life to live as close to the way God originally intended for us. This Church is full of imperfect people, because we all have issues and problems we are trying to work through. But above all its about helping each other prepare for the next 6 days coming in your week. Oh, by the way... it's a casual environment for people of all age, color, and background.

What do you teach the kids?

The same things as we do to the adults, just on the kids level. We are trying our best to unite the church in growing TOGETHER. Each week story tellers take truths and foundational understanding from the teaching the adults receive and engage our kids with the same. Our goal is to help families grow, to keep the conversations going, and to find their place in God's Kingdom TOGETHER.

How safe is KidGenesis?

Our check-in and check-out procedures [including a parent/child name badge system] are in place to ensure that no child is removed from the KidGenesis areas by any person other than the one who dropped off the child. Background screenings are also required for all staff and volunteers serving in KidGenesis. Along with this, since our volunteers serve regularly, their familiarity with KidGenesis families often serves as an additional safety measure.

Can I bring my child in the service if needed?

YES! We never want to hinder you from being able to learn and worship with others. We do encourage families to use KidGenesis as a place to allow their children to grow, engage, and interact with others their same age. However, we understand that we do not know the circumstances, situations, or issues that might arise between you and your children. Therefore we trust you as the parent to make the best decision possible for your situation.
